Ambition and Aspiration for all

Famous Geographers		Because I love Geography, when I am older, I could be…
	Sir David Attenborough (1926-present) UK - Broadcaster and natural historian who has travelled around the world showing how people, animals and environments are connected.	Geographer – researches places, people and environments Cartographer – creates and studies maps GIS specialist – uses computers and satellite data to study places Climate scientist – studies climate/ climate change Geography teacher – helps others understand the world Travel/tourism specialist – works with destinations, travel and tourism Town/city planner – helps design and improve places where people live
	Mary Anning (1799–1847) UK - A famous British fossil hunter who helped us understand Earth's past.
	Wangari Maathai (1940–2011) Kenya - Kenyan environmentalist who encouraged communities to plant trees and protect their environment.
	Dr. Sylvia Earle (1935–present) USA - American oceanographer and explorer who has spent decades studying and protecting the oceans.
	Alexander von Humboldt (1769–1859) Germany - Explored South and Central America and studied plants, animals, climate and landscapes.

